

Efforts Made to Poison Judge Prewitt's Cattle

Capt. V. G. Mullikin brought his blood hounds to this city yesterday to assist in trailing the person or persons who placed paris green in the cattle fields on Judge Henry R. Prewitt's farm Tuesday night. Several pounds of the poison had been placed in the field, and had been found in eighteen or twenty piles in the field, and in the lot in front of the residence. None of Judge Prewitt's cattle had eaten any of the poison as they had been turned into the field only a short while before the plot to poison them was discovered.

The blood hounds trailed down through the field to a road on the back of the farm, where buggy tracks were found and the trail lost. As yet no arrests have been made, though officers are at work on the case.

Druggists Liable

Louisville, August 6.—Druggists in Kentucky who sell patent medicines which have been advertised by itinerant medical companies from a wagon or other place in the street, where the companies state that they themselves do not sell the medicine advertised, but name the druggists from whom it can be obtained, legally are liable to be regarded as members of the traveling troupes, and as such are subject to prosecution. Elwood Hamilton, attorney for the State Board of Health, has informed the board in an opinion prepared at the request of Dr. J. N. McCormack, director of the Bureau of Sanitation.

The opinion quotes the provision of the statute which declares that a druggist "becomes personally liable for the statutory penalty if he permits one who is not a registered pharmacist to vend medicines," and states that, for the purpose of prosecution it would not be necessary to show that the articles were delivered to the offending druggist by the company if it could be shown that the articles were sold by the druggist and that the druggist and the itinerant company had a mutual interest in the sale.

Southern Training School at Blue Ridge

Religious workers who want a little refreshment both in body and spirit are to have opportunity to get it the week of August 23rd to September 1st.

The occasion is the holding of the Southern Training School for Christian Leadership at Blue Ridge, N. C., which is being promoted under the endorsement and approval of the State Sunday School Association of South Carolina, Kentucky, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida and Georgia. This is the first year for this training school, which promises to become an annual institution and to grow into one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the country. Thinking men and women who are deeply interested in the promotion of Christianity are realizing more fully every day that one of the greatest needs in the work is more thoroughly trained teachers.

Some of the most noted Christian teachers in the country are to be at Blue Ridge as instructors at the training school. Among them will be Dr. A. T. Robertson, professor of New Testament of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. Another will be Dr. George Lang, professor of philosophy and English Bible at the University of Alabama, who is to lecture on the social teachings of Jesus, and Dr. Plato T. Durham, of Emory University, who is to lecture on "Messages of Jesus to Men of Today."

Mrs. Rufus Fant, of Anderson, S. C., past president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, is to give a series of lectures on "Parliamentary Law."

Dr. John E. White, president of Anderson College, has consented to give a short course on the "Master Teacher."

Other teachers on the Southern Training School faculty will include Dr. M. A. Honline, of the International Sunday School Association, Chicago; Dr. Herman Harrell Horne of the University of New York.

Only two hundred students can be accommodated this first year. Registrations have already been received from States throughout the South, from Kentucky to Louisiana and to Florida. The cost is $30 for the ten days; of this amount $5 is for program fee and $25 for board and lodging. In order to be sure of accommodations, it is necessary to send in your reservation with $5.00 program fee at once to Leon C. Palmer, General Superintendent, Spartanburg, S. C.

According to Superintendent Palmer a special reduced rate of one and one-half fare for the round trip has been secured. This rate is only available to those securing application blanks from Mr. Palmer at Spartanburg.

Blue Ridge, N. C., is one of those places where one can enjoy the open air and the open sky and go and one is living. It is right up in the beautiful Land of the Sky, just 18 miles from Asheville, and two and one-half miles from Black Mountain, N. C., where is the railroad station. Blue Ridge owns 1,351 acres of forest land; and its own electric plant, with ample hot and cold water, sewerage disposal plant, a steam laundry, pressing equipment, book store, barber shop, soda fountain, garage, telephone, telegraphic service, trained nurse, etc.

Blue Ridge is located in the heart of the most rugged mountains of Eastern America and has an elevation of 2,700 feet. Looking out from the veranda of Lee Hall, one sees range after range of mountains rising up to Mt. Mitchell, the highest mountain east of the Rockies. The water, the bracing atmosphere, the scenery and the fellowship combine to make it one of the most ideal vacation spots in America.

Youth Kills Father Later Confesses

John Shumaker, 21, a farmer living near Kiddleville, Clark county, was placed in the Clark county jail Tuesday night, charged with the murder of his father, John Shumaker, Sr., whose body was found at the Shumaker home.

Placing of a formal charge of murder against the younger Shumaker followed a visit of county officials to the scene of the tragedy, after which John and his two 19-year-old twin brothers, Herbert and Hobart, were brought to Winchester for examination. Shortly after arrival of the party at police headquarters, according to Sheriff H. Clay Hodgkin and Deputy Sheriffs Jas. Allen, and Dan Insko, the two boys confessed that their elder brother killed their father after a quarrel over crops. Both admitted that they witnessed the shooting.

Previous to about two weeks ago, according to the story told by the younger brothers at police headquarters, John and his wife had lived with their father. Trouble arose over some crops, of which John claimed an interest, following which the younger John, with his wife, moved to her mother's home in Estill county, leaving the father by himself. The brothers returned each day to look after the chickens and crops, it was stated.

The final dispute arose between John and his father when the father, who owed money to a neighboring farmer, made arrangements for the neighbor to take the corn crop in part payment of the debt.

On Monday morning the three boys came over as usual and met their father in the watermelon patch. Nothing was said about the crop until they approached the house. The father went into his room and John, Jr., secured a shotgun from another part of the house and went into his father's room from the front entrance, followed by the younger brothers. The father refused to give his son anything for the crop, saying that they had no agreement to that effect. John, Jr., then fired twice at his father, killing him instantly.

Following the shooting the boys left the house, leaving the body where it had fallen, and went back to their home in Estill county. Yesterday morning they returned with the wife of the elder brother. She immediately notified Sheriff H. Clay Hodgkin.

At the inquest held Tuesday afternoon by George Rupert, magistrate of that district, all three of the boys were present. They denied that they had been near the house on Monday, but upon being told by neighbors that they were seen there Monday morning officers placed them under arrest.

Shumaker's body was found Tuesday morning. Indications were that the shooting had taken place Monday. A gun was found lying across the bed in the room where the old man was shot. Officers stated that this was not the gun with which he was killed and that the gun had not been found.

LATER—Young Shumaker, yesterday, after a three hours' grilling, admitted that he had killed his father, saying "I killed him, but I had to do it."

No further statement was made by the slayer, who is now in the Clark county jail, under charge of murder.

Wheat Yields not Determined by Seed

The comparative ability of different strains of wheat to give high or low yields is determined more largely by inheritance than by the size and weight of the seed, according to crops specialists. Weight per bushel, which is determined almost entirely by soil and seasonal conditions, is over-estimated in value by many wheat growers as an indication of the ability of that particular seed to give high yields. Kentucky farmers in selecting seed for the fall sowing, should select seed from high-yielding strains of pure bred wheat, even though it is light in weight, in preference to heavy seed from mongrel strains, according to Ralph D. Kenney, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture.

Experiments which have been conducted over a long period of time to determine the yielding qualities of large, small and unscreened wheat, show that large seed has no advantage over the other two grades as far as increases in yield are concerned. Wheat is a self-fertilized plant and unless mixed with other varieties by mechanical means, such as threshing machines, or rendered impure by noxious weed seeds, will inherit the same yielding ability in comparison with other varieties as it had when first introduced into a new territory. In other words wheat does not "run out."

Several Points Decide Quantity of Stone

Farmers who are planning to use limestone this fall can best decide the question of how much to apply by considering the cost of the stone, distance from the railroad, the type of soil on their farm and the crop to be grown on the field, according to suggestions made by soil specialists at the College of Agriculture. As a general recommendation two tons an acre is the proper amount to use. As little as 500 pounds of finely-ground limestone may be helpful in getting a stand of clover and as much as four tons an acre may be necessary in order to grow alfalfa successfully.

When stone is cheap it should be used heavily, not only because it will do more good, but also because it will pay to have the soil well limed while the price is reasonable. Only a light application is practical when the hauling distance is as great as ten or fifteen miles. It will be more profitable to put 1,000 pounds an acre on 20 acres of wheat in order to secure a stand of clover than to put the ten tons on only two acres.

Winter Cover Crops Boost Crop Yields

One of the important results to be obtained by growing cover crops is the increase which is gained in yields of crops grown year after year on the same soil, according to experimental results cited by crops specialists from the College of Agriculture in showing the importance of this crop. In one experiment, where corn was grown on the same land for six years in succession and crimson clover was seeded each fall to plow under in the spring, the yield of corn was 12 bushels more an acre than on similar soils where no cover crop was grown. When rye was used as a cover crop an average increase of 3.6 bushels of corn an acre was obtained for 18 years in comparison with the yield from similar soils on which no cover crop had been seeded.

GREAT WORK OF U. S. REMOUNT STATION

Accomplishing Much to Build Unexcelled Line of Cavalry Horses Invaluable to Army.

The World War was the great cal-dron in which birth was given to many organizations looking to the leadership of America in every path of economic activity; and no such activity bearing on the future of one of our most vital essentials compares with that of the American Remount Association, an organization composed of some of the country's leading men.
It came into being as a result of the dire necessity of more and better blooded horses for the United States Army. Thus, with kindred organizations, it is promoting one of the most important undertakings looking toward our future security.

The object of the Remount Association is the improvement of general-purpose horse conditions in every State in the Union; and because of the importance of the work entailed, Col. F. S. Armstrong, of the United States Army, has been placed in charge, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., where his department is in close touch with every other governmental agency. The Remount Association, with the co-operation of others similarly engaged, has, during the eighteen months of its existence, succeeded in getting one hundred and sixty-four stallions—eighty-five of which were donated by patriotic organizations and individuals—for distribution throughout the country, to be utilized by farmers desirous of raising the standard of their horses.

In laying out the work, it was decided to profit by the experience of foreign governments and locate thoroughbred sires in every grazing community of the country. The whole was divided into zones, and a plan of breeding, to the interest of the farmers of America, inaugurated. Recent reports from the Association's headquarters in Washington show that there has been an average of fifty-five mares for each stallion, although the breeding season is not yet concluded. Also, at a meeting of the Association, it was shown that there was a demand for some seven hundred horses last Spring, and that, for the coming Spring, this demand will be doubled or even trebled.

Both the race courses and the thoroughbred nurseries constantly are being drawn upon for horses of proven courage in the acid test of racing.
It remains for them to produce the only type that measures up to the standard destined to supply the United States cavalry remounts worthy of the men in the service.

It may be added that, owing to the broad plan of fostering the industry of horse breeding as practiced for generations by the British, French and Italian Governments, these countries were in the enviable position of ability to supply their armies with good mounts, whereas, America, which had never introduced such a system was obliged to draw upon the resources of the allied nations to horse her men.

Taylor Co. Farmers Organize Association

Organization of the Taylor County Co-operative Pure-bred Bull Association has practically been completed with the enrollment of enough farmers to represent 150 cows, according to a report by E. M. Prewitt, dairy extension specialist from the College of Agriculture, who co-operated with County Agent J. L.
Miller and farmers of the county in forming the organization. The herds of the farmers who have enrolled will be improved by the use of three pure-bred Jersey sires, which will be purchased after the organization meeting, scheduled for the very near future.

Clean Poultry Yard Checks Summer Roup

Keeping coops and yards clean and allowing the chicks good range over grassy places will do much toward preventing summer roup in the flock of young birds, according to poultrymen at the College of Agriculture. The coops should be ventilated to allow the entrance of plenty of fresh air and in no case should be overcrowded with birds.
When summer roup becomes prevalent in the flock the use of a disinfectant should be used to control it. Adding what potassium permanganate will stay on a dime to each gallon of dater will prevent spread of the disease.

Wheat Yield Increased By Acid Phosphate

Treating wheat ground with acid phosphate resulted in an increase of five bushels of grain an acre for Henry Harmon, a Marion county farmer, who co-operated with the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture and County Agent H. J.
Childress, in conducting the demonstration. Mr. Harmon applied 150 pounds of acid phosphate on one field and left a similar field untreated for comparison. The treated field yielded 20 bushels of high-grade wheat an acre, while the untreated field yielded 15 bushels of inferior grain per acre.

LEGIONS PICK SEATTLE GIRLS FOR BEAUTY

American Legion members in the state of Washington very frankly admitted that they were interested in the beauty of girls, so they conducted a contest—not to find THE most beautiful but the THREE most beautiful in the whole Pacific Northwest. And here are the winners—every one of them from Seattle. Reading left to right, they are: Hazel Jordan, Helen Worthington and Lorraine Kelly.

NUTTY NONSENSE

By Hick and Wal

LOOK TO THE LIGHT

The shadows darken; O'er the river's breast, Dimly the hills appear.
Look to the sunrise, love, and not the west,
Though the starred dreams are there!

There shines the red gold of the dying sun,
Which soon the dark shall blight;
The gold of beautiful, sad dreams!—
Dear one,

Look to the morning light,
Look where the light shall first illumine the skies
When the black shades depart.
God made the morning in your dreaming eyes—
A deathless morn, Sweetheart!

The young world calls you, where no spirit grieves—
"In temples reared to Art
Your face shall shine when he that loves you leaves
But a dim name, Sweetheart!

Yet this—for all the shadows of the past,
As fades his face from sight—
Look to the light, Sweetheart, at last—at last!
Sweetheart, look to the light!

THE HIGHER EDUCATION
There will be a very interesting and instructive debate next Friday night in the Franklin Hall, of Ohio University, on a subject that no one should fail to hear discussed. The subject is, "Resolved, That an organ grinder is more beneficial to a community than an umbrella mender."—Ada, O., Record.

THE VISITOR
Ever Billie Wilkins came to town, us fellers whooped for joy,
To think the fun we'd surely have with that smart city boy.
We figgered we'd enjoy ourselves in lots and lots of ways,
And life for us would brighter be, for several nights and days.
With hunting snipes and working off some forty kinds of spells That serve to make things mizzable for them young city swells.
"Ah, yea, you betcha!" we all said,
"Twill brighten our young lives To greet the stranger at our gate, when that there lad arrives!"
And then—good thunder—what a joke! It made our poor heads whirl When Billie Wilkins came to town, for Billie was a girl!

Exorbitant Railroad Rates Must Be Cut

Germany is now supplying to California and the entire Pacific Coast all the coke which that section is using, according to a letter from the Matthew Addy Company, iron merchants of Cincinnati. And yet we have been told that there was no danger from German competition.

In discussing this subject the Matthew Addy Company points out that this condition is largely due to exorbitant freight rates. In olden days the freight rate on pig iron from Birmingham to the Pacific Coast was $12.32 per ton, but today it is $22.40 per ton, and they add: "All the iron that is needed on the Pacific Coast is coming by sea, most of it from Belgium." * * * "In the olden days the rate to California on Connellsville coke was $11.30 per ton; the present rate is $19.76 per ton."

And then mention is made of the fact that the coke that is being used on the Pacific Coast is coming from Germany.

The old freight rate from Birmingham to Cincinnati was $2.75; now it is $4.50. The freight rate on pig iron from Birmingham to St. Louis was $2.75; today it is $5.25. "The South," the Addy Company writes, "has just about gone out of the pig iron business, because freight rates are so high as to practically build a wall around the Southern furnaces."

The situation in the iron and coke trade, so clearly outlined in this letter, is typical of the conditions prevailing in nearly every line of business in this country. Freight rates are exorbitantly high. They are destructive to business. They were made when cotton was selling at 35c to 40c a pound, and pig iron and coke at more than double the present prices. Since these freight rates were established prices of everything have been cut right and left, and railroads cannot prosper at the present rates, because present rates destroy business.

There can be no thorough economic development of this country until the railroads voluntarily, or by the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, are forced to bring rates down to a more normal basis.

The Manufacturers' Record for twenty years or more, advocated a higher rate than that which prevailed, believing that the railroads were not getting a freight rate which would justify the expansion of railroad facilities, which we have so persistently advocated. But the present freight rate is absolutely unjustified from every point of view. It is destructive of business. It has thrown a great burden upon the country. It is permitting European coke and iron to drive out the coke and iron of Pennsylvania and the South from the Pacific Coast, and is hampering, and in many cases, making impossible the development of our domestic export trade.

Unless the railroads voluntarily and promptly take the lead in bringing about a lower freight rate they will inevitably create a hostility to railroad interests which will prove as destructive as were the legislative activities years ago, by the states and the nation alike, against all railroad interests. A quick readjustment of freight rates, preferably by the wisdom of the railroad managers, is the safest and sanest course for their own preservation. He will be a narrow-minded railroad official who fails to see the signals of danger in present rates and who does not take prompt steps to bring about a reduction in rates.—Manufacturers' Record.

Admits Killing His Own Mother

Willie Deffendoll, 17 years old, of Booneville, Ind., held with his brother, Dolly, 22, for the murder of their 70-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Deffendoll, confessed at noon Tuesday to officials at Booneville that he shot and killed her, it was announced by Coroner Verner Kriekhouse.

According to the story which Willie told Coroner Kriekhouse he and his mother were walking through the woods in search of some squirrels when the hammer of his gun struck against a tree and discharged a shot through his mother's back.

Mrs. Deffendoll, wounded, fell down on her side. Then she turned over on her face, according to the story drawn from Willie.

"I didn't want her to suffer," Willie said, "so I up and shot her again. That didn't kill her, so I shot her again in the neck."

Willie hurried to his home and then took refuge in Booneville. He set the date of the shooting as Friday, July 22, and said that it occurred at 8 o'clock in the morning.

According to Willie's confession, he had had an argument with his mother the day before the shooting because he had returned from Booneville without a job. "She fussed at me," he said simply.

Willie's confession clears up the mystery as to who shot Mrs. Deffendoll, but his accidental version of the shooting is not given much credence by officials in Booneville.

"An affidavit was made against him on Tuesday," Coroner Kriekhouse said. "It will not be an accident charge. I do not believe that he has told all he knows. He finally will be persuaded to tell it all."

The body of Mrs. Deffendoll, with the head severed, was found in a woods near her farm home, fifteen miles from Booneville, last week. William and Dolly were placed under arrest immediately after finding the body.

The reason why they are so happy during the engagement is because the parties are not as well acquainted with each other as they will be later on.

PEACE MAKER

There is a man that wants no more of war. He it is that makes war so warm that humanity cannot stand it; he invents high explosives, he introduces smokeless powder, he is everywhere inventing and contributing things most destructive. He is a peace maker by use of extreme measures. Sometimes we conclude the only way to purify politics is to destroy the politicians. If one party stands for a measure that is helpful to the masses, the other opposes, for no reason, but that the measure was introduced by one not of his political faith. This should not be. All peoples should unite in measures helpful. This is the part of peace makers. Then there are many factions within political lines. They are the greatest menace to good government. The politicians are great destroyers of everything and everybody that is worth while, for they consider nothing but self, their own promotion. We have such a condition right here now, more so within party organization than between opposing parties. The latter is bad enough, but the former is worse. We believe in party principles and admire the man that will adhere strictly to them, but that character of a man that is a partisan merely for gain is extremely repulsive to all decency. We believe we have such within Democratic ranks. "Democrats for revenue only."

They are disturbers of organized bodies. They are not peace makers and the cure for such can only become effective by the voice of the great common people when they retire these obstructionists to the political shades of oblivion. This would be peace making and the parties effecting it would become peace makers whose names would be written high in letters of gold.

OUR HOBBY

Last week we were asked to assist in the sale of a desirable piece of property and we did it to the satisfaction of all parties for the property was brought to the attention of good people and they purchased it. If we can sell we are of the opinion we can contract and construct. Our hobby is the construction of a modern hotel. We need it for the entertainment of the traveling public. We need it in order that we may invite and entertain organized assemblies. We need it as an advertisement of Mt. Sterling, and Montgomery county. We need it as a stopping point on our good roads, soon to be under construction, and to be completed. Then, we need it because no city is inviting that is without a modern hotel building. It seems to us that the Chamber of Commerce, by a united effort, could do something big by joining with volunteer forces with this object in view. Seldom is such an enterprise a one man's job. If the Chamber of Commerce would have a special meeting to consider this matter and nothing else, much would come out of it, for in union of effort there is strength. We are satisfied with our efforts in the good roads movement in which our citizens joined and believe just such an effort for a modern hotel would bring similar results. An effort is worthy of the object to be attained.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

HERE'S a significant statement which has recently appeared in the advertisement of a leading business firm:

"In accordance with President Harding's suggestion that retail prices be restored to normal as quickly as possible, and in order to give patrons an opportunity to buy at lowered costs, we will begin today Important Price Concessions offering very unusual inducements."

Doubly significant is this announcement. First in its indication of the downward trend of prices; second in the spirit of co-operation which it shows on the part of merchants and manufacturers to do their share in reducing living costs by increasing the purchasing power of your dollar.

This is not a lone example. A careful reading of the advertising columns will furnish ample evidence that the movement is widespread; that merchants and manufacturers in every line of business are making "important price concessions."

A further evidence of their sincere desire to serve is that these concessions are made NOW, not between seasons, but at the very height of the spring and summer buying time, when people's thoughts naturally turn to new apparel and new home furnishings.

This natural seasonal desire to spend is being met with all kinds of advantageous buying opportunities, and the wise man and woman will take the opportunity while it is theirs, and so make every shopping dollar do its fullest duty.

THE buying possibilities in the advertising columns today challenges the attention of every earnest economist. Quality merchandise and price advantages go hand in hand, and ample stocks are offered from which to make selection.

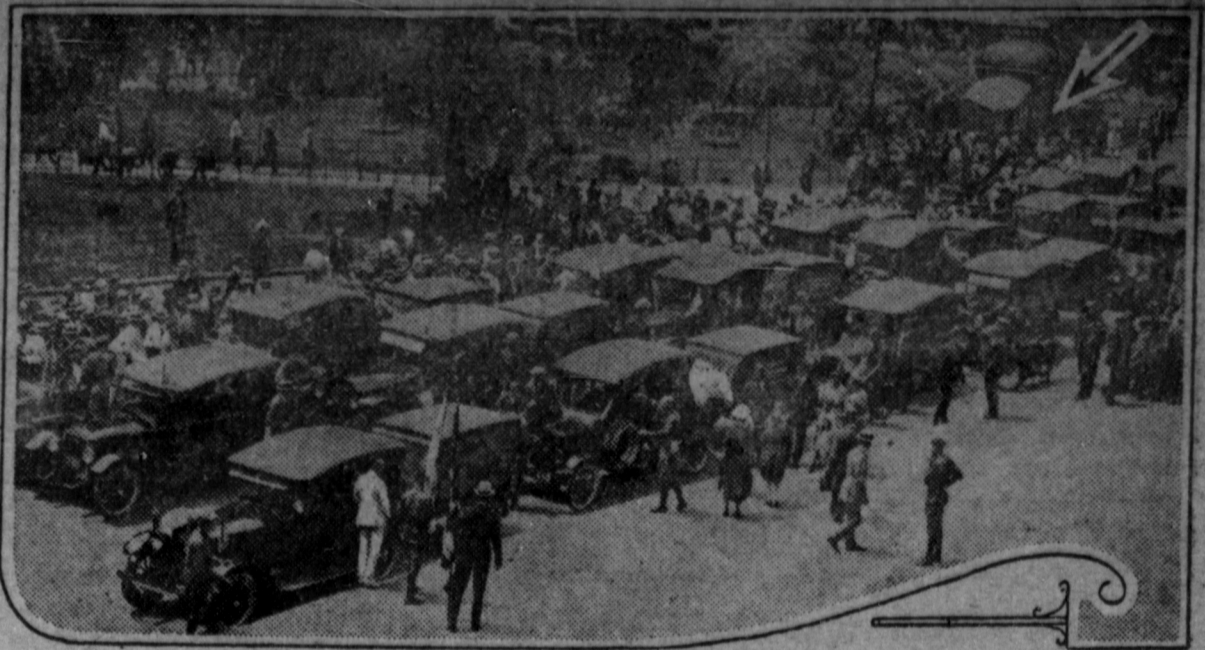

It is not necessary to deny yourself or your home the things which will contribute greater pleasure or comfort.

READ the advertising announcements of the forward-looking merchants and manufacturers in your newspaper, and use the suggestions which they offer as a shopping guide.

They not only quote attractive prices, but they are filled with authoritative style information which is invaluable to the shopper who wants definite knowledge of the things she ought to buy.

Remember this—You'll get greater satisfaction in price, quality and style from the purchases you make if you'll use the advertising columns to direct you in your shopping.

GET A DOZEN

The young housewife, looking very pretty and workmanlike in big, green overalls, was cleaning out the pantry cupboard.

"Dickey," she called to her young husband, "I want you to bring me a mouse-trap home tomorrow."

"But, angel," cried the young man, "I brought you one home only yesterday."

"I know, pet," called back the young bride, "but that one has a mouse in it."

Luxury Tax May Be Eliminated

Chairman Fordney and other Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee will confer with President Harding in Washington today on General subject Tax Revision.

It is understood the discussion will center particularly upon what present estimated extraordinary expenses can be provided through other means than by direct taxation. Secretary Mellon, Speaker Gillett and other Republican leaders will participate in the conference.

Agreement to eliminate the taxes on fountain drinks and ice cream and the so-called luxury tax on wearing apparel is understood to have been reached by Republican members of the committee, sitting in executive session. A reduction of one-half in the 10 per cent levy on sporting goods also is said to have been agreed upon.

The total loss of revenue from these proposed changes would be slightly less than $50,000,000 and the reductions are the first to be passed upon by the majority members in their efforts to carry out the announced program of Republican House leaders to cut half a billion dollars from the nation's tax bill.

The wearing apparel levies proposed for repeal are those of 10 per cent on the cost prices of:

Women's and misses' hats, bon-nets and hoods exceeding $15 each; women's and misses' silk stockings or hose exceeding $2 per pair; men's women's, misses', and boys' boots, shoes, pumps and slippers exceeding $10 per pair, men's and boys' silk stockings or hose exceeding $1 per pair; men's shirts exceeding $3.00 each; men's and boys' hats exceeding $5 each; men's and boys' caps exceeding $2; men's and boys' neckwear and neckties, exceeding $2.00 each; men's, women's, misses' and boys' pajamas, nightgowns and underwear exceeding $5 each; kimono's, petticoats and waists exceeding $15; men's waistcoats, sold separately from suits, exceeding $5 each, and house or smoking coats or jackets, and bath or lounging robes exceeding $7.50 each.

The sporting goods on which it is proposed to cut the tax in half include tennis racquets, nets, racquet covers and pressers, skates, canoe paddles and cushions, baseball bats, gloves, masks, protectors, shoes and uniforms, football helmets, harness and goals, basketball goals and uniforms, golf bags and clubs, balls of all kinds, including baseballs, foot-balls, tennis and golf; fishing rods and reels, chess and checker boards and pieces, dice, games and parts of games (except playing cards and children's toys and games) and all similar articles.

Repeal of the 10 per cent tax on carbonated bottled beverages, which is collected and paid by the manufacturer monthly, also was discussed at the meeting, and favorable action was predicted by some members of the committee, who argued that it was not fair to remove the tax on drinks at fountains in the cities and retain the levy upon the bottled goods sold largely in the rural districts.

Before undertaking revision of specific sections of the existing revenue law, the committee majority spent several hours discussing possible cuts in both taxes and expenditures, together with the probable amounts of government income other than internal revenue. It was said that no formal agreement was reached on any final totals.

TASTY TIPS

FOR FRUIT JUICES

Add one cup of sugar to one cup of boiling water and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Boil without stirring for 10 minutes. Cool and put in bottles. This sirup can be put in bottles and kept on hand to use with such fruit juices as orange, lemon and so on.

CHEESE SAVORY

Toast slices of white or brown bread one-half inch thick. Make mixture of one egg yolk, one tablespoon cream, one ounce of bread crumbs, two ounces grated cheese, pepper, salt, cayenne to taste. Pour this mixture over the toast and brown in oven. Serve hot.

ORANGE RIND

If you want something unusual in the way of pastry, flavor your custard pie with orange rind. An addition would be to serve crushed strawberries with it.

BROWN BREAD

Two cups rye meal, two cups of Indian meal, one cup of flour, one cup sour milk, three-fourths cup of molasses, three and a fourth cups warm water, two heaping teaspoons soda. Bake or steam two and a half hours.

CREAM

Sweet cream added to the caramel cake filling will prevent it from sugaring.

VEAL BIRDS

Cut veal cutlet into required portions and slice each one through the center. Spread one-half with a layer of bread dressing. Lay the other half on top and tie with a cord to keep in shape. Fry in hot drippings and remove strings before serving.

FRUIT COCKTAIL APPETIZING

Fruit cocktails are an appetizing way to begin a meal. The tartness and coolness is refreshing and stimulating. Care should be taken in planning a meal, that has its beginning in a fruit cocktail not to repeat the same fruit in the salad or dessert. The cocktail may be served in chilled glasses, in grapefruit or orange shells or halves of cantaloupes.

SAVING PIE JUICE

A layer of bread crumbs on the bottom of your fruit pie will prevent the juice running out as it bakes. Cornstarch mixed with the sugar is also an aid to retention of the juice.

BACON FLAVORING

Pepper bacon cut very fine and sprinkled over the top of the vegetable salad adds much in the way of flavor.

INSTEAD OF CREAM

As a substitute for cream in soups mix two yolks of eggs with a quarter pint of milk and pass it through a fine strainer. Stir it into the soup, which had been made, and do not let the soup boil again.

Another surprising characteristic of many men is their belief that they are smart enough to beat another man's game.

Acid Phosphate Helps Fall Sown Crops

There are approximately 3,000,000 acres of corn, truck and tobacco land available for fall crops in Kentucky which would bring their owners increased profits by way of bigger crop yields provided they were treated with acid phosphate before planting, according to soils and crops specialists from the College of Agriculture. On the basis of results obtained on the soil experiment fields of the state the returns from 300,000 tons of 16 per cent acid phosphate applied at the rate of 200 pounds on each acre of the available fall crop land would be more than $10,500,000, or about $1.76 for each dollar invested. If limestone could be applied with the phosphate the returns would be about $4 for each dollar invested, the specialists say. Farmers cannot afford to leave corn, tobacco and truck land idle during the winter and in all cases except those in the Blue Grass region, will get increased returns by use of acid phosphate and limestone.

A small grain crop such as rye or wheat is best suited for fall planting on this type of soil. If the grain is harvested a considerable portion of the profit will be secured in the increased yield. Grass and clover would probably be seeded in the spring in which case a larger return will result from the use of fertilizer by way of the better growth of grass. In case the small grain is seeded this fall for winter protection from soil erosion and leaching and is plowed under in the spring for another crop a good return from the fertilizer will be secured in the increased crop yield.

Deep Fall Plowing Kills Hessian Fly

Destroying wheat stubble that is infested with Hessian flies between now and the time of sowing next year's crop is the first precaution that Kentucky farmers can take in preventing injury to their grain by this pest, according to Harrison Garman, entomologist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. All land which contains fly-infested stubble should be plowed to a depth of five or six inches in August so that the fragile flies cannot get to the surface. If stubble on the farm is badly infested the safest way to get rid of the flies is to burn off the field. Flies from the stubble emerge in September and place their eggs on any volunteer or other wheat in the vicinity. Late planting and the use of fields that are known to be free from the flies are precautions that can be used later in the season by farmers, according to the entomologist.

The flaxseed stage of the flies, which appears as a smooth, shining, red-brown, seed-like object, is left in the stubble when the wheat is cut. It remains in this condition until the latter part of July, when some adults come out. However, most of them remain idle until August and September when the flies emerge in some numbers about the time wheat comes up. The eggs are soon placed on the upper side of the wheat blades after which the flies die. The minute grubs which hatch creep down the blades to where these join the stems and crowd in behind them next to the stems. They rasp the delicate tissues of the plant until they are weakened and in many cases kill both the stems and blades. They assume the flaxseed stage sometime later in the fall. When the weather remains mild for some time in October and November as it sometimes does in Kentucky, they have ample time to become adults again before winter, when they go to late-sown wheat, if it is up, and lay eggs for another generation.

Because of the life habits of the insect, wheat sown in September is almost sure to be badly infested. The adult flies become fewer in number toward the end of the month, and when frosts come are largely destroyed. Wheat sown in October is not likely to be infested. October 5 has been found to be the most favorable date for wheat sowing in Eastern Kentucky, October 5 to 10 for Central Kentucky and October 10 to 14 for Western Kentucky during average seasons.

WESTERN SONGBIRD HAILED AS JUNO

Miss Louise Dove

Is the superrace to come from western America? Twice has Henry Savage, the theatrical producer, found it necessary to have a beautiful big girl in a stellar role of a production and each time he has had to turn his eyes to the west to find them. First attempt was answered by California but the more recent call found a Missouri maiden the choice, Miss Louise Dove, of Kansas City, a beautiful song bird who is six feet tall. When this western girl visited eastern art centers, where she studied, she was hailed by artists and sculptors as a "Modern Juno." It was there that Savage was attracted to her talent and persuaded her to give up Grand Opera ambitions for a season or two in Lady Bills.
